CAT Teaching Award Call for Applications

In 2020, the Center for the Advancement of Teaching is introducing a new award to recognize Wake Forest teacher-scholars who exemplify the reflective, evidence-informed teaching that is at the center of our new mission. This award is distinct from the Innovative Teaching Award we have conferred in the past.

Applications are due Monday, February 24.

Summer Course Design Institutes

During the summer, the CAT will be hosting two week-long, intensive course design institutes for faculty interested in redesigning a course. Each institute will run a full 5 days, Monday-Friday (with working time and lunch provided) and require the completion of homework between each session. These institutes are designed to get you to a final (or near final) syllabus by the end of the week, and you will have the opportunity to work together with colleagues from across the University. Participants who successfully complete all Institute requirements will receive a $500 stipend.

Our 2020 Institutes will be held the weeks of June 1 and June 15. More information about the application process will appear on our website late-February.
