News from the TLC

Issue 1.5
May 14, 2019

Dear Colleagues,

Although this was not planned, I am sending this message on my 1-year anniversary at Wake Forest. It is hard to believe that time has passed so swiftly, but I welcome the opportunity to reflect on a wonderfully enriching year of relationship building that has energized me for the path ahead. Our team has already begun strategic planning for a number of big summer projects, and we look forward to sharing them with you when you return in the fall.

As you prepare for your own summer adventures, we hope you will join us for our final workshop of the year where we will help you to clarify your goals and create a plan to accomplish them. And if you are designing or redesigning a new course this summer, we invite you to participate in a Course Design Institute we are piloting for the first time in the middle of June.

Best wishes for your summer, and thanks for a fantastic first year!

No More Lazy Summer Days: Plan for a Productive Summer!

Kristi Verbeke, TLC
Thursday, May 16, 10:00AM-12:00PM

Do you start summer with high aspirations for productivity only to find yourself wondering where the time went in August? During this workshop, you'll spend some time clarifying your summer goals and creating a plan to accomplish them. We'll also discuss potential areas for support and accountability. Bring your calendars and be prepared to do some strategic thinking and planning to make this summer your best yet!

(New!) Summer Course Design Institute

Given significant demand for course design support this year, the TLC has decided to pilot a Summer Course Design Institute for interested faculty June 17th–June 20th from 1:00PM–5:00PM each day. The institute will be designed to get you to a final (or near final) syllabus by the end of the week, and you will have the opportunity to work together with colleagues from across the University. In exchange for daily attendance, as well as completion of required "homework," participants will receive a $500 stipend. If this pilot program is of interest to you, please let the TLC know by Monday, May 20th.
